

Community Listening Session

Oct. 1, 2014 // 2:00 pm

Apalachicola Community Center

You are invited to attend a public listening session where members of the UF Oyster Recovery Team will facilitate a discussion to hear and document the community's specific questions, concerns and ideas about the management and restoration of Apalachicola Bay.

All notes taken at this meeting will be transcribed and made broadly available to any person or agency who might be able to answer questions and provide solutions.

The University of Florida Oyster Recovery Team was created in 2013 to bring together experts from UF and the Apalachicola community to find ways of restoring sustainable populations of Apalachicola Bay's oysters. Team members include UF/IFAS, Florida Sea Grant, SMARRT, Franklin's Promise Coalition, Career Source Gulf Coast and the City of Apalachicola.
